

Live with your parents or in a hostel?

What is a hostel?

There is a student hostel at every higher education institution of the third and fourth levels of accreditation, and it accepts within its walls mainly students from other cities - provincials.

It can be several residential buildings on the same street, but also a whole campus with all the amenities is not excluded, so to speak.

Only nonresident students are admitted to the student hostel, and they receive temporary registration for the next 5 years (for the entire period of study).

Here they are given a bed-place in one of the student rooms, as well as a unique opportunity to make new acquaintances, comrades and friends.

Probably, the song: "Students live happily from session to session" extends exactly to the student dormitory, where students' laughter is always heard, witty jokes and practical jokes are heard, life is in full swing and is presented in the most intense colors.

For local students

Local students cannot live in a student hostel, as they already have permanent registration. They have to live together with strict parents, while attending couples at the university every day.

However, this does not interfere with making new friends and living a full-fledged student life, enjoying every day and striving to implement plans for the future. True, sometimes conflicts with parents simply cannot be avoided.

Local students do not strive for a student hostel, and after 5 years of study at a university they may never visit it. If there are provincial friends, then visiting the student hostel at least once during the period of study will definitely happen - there are a lot of impressions.

Advantages and Disadvantages of Living in a Dorm

Almost all the advantages of such temporary registration indicate a fun and carefree life, an unforgettable student life.

And that, in part, it is:

- to live where;
- have fun and have friends with whom;
- you will not stay hungry - your friends will feed;

- memories of the student body;
- studies will always be tightened up and will improve academic performance;
- will not let you get bored;
- you can stay in the city after graduation.

However, not everything is so rosy, even in such a carefree life there are "pitfalls" (shortcomings).

Among them:

- changeable academic performance;
- chronic insomnia;
- constant lack of money;
- lack of privacy;
- absence of relatives nearby;
- not always pleasant neighbors and good-natured friends;
- the risk of household theft.

In general, it's okay, but at first it is difficult to adapt to a student dormitory after such a long life in the parental home.

Not all students get used to such a busy schedule, and some are even expelled from the first year due to low academic performance and systematic absenteeism. The student dormitory is partly to blame for this irresponsibility. "
